KID-GLOVED MEN AS MILLINERS

When They Try to Prevent Burglary With Bibles Instead of Guns.

THE PERSONAL LIBERTY IDEA A MYTH At the Prohibition amendment meeting held in the Centensry Church on Kirkpatrick street last night the Rev. R. A.

Hill, D. D., of the Seventh Presbyterian Church, compared the prohibition movement to the anti-slavery question and spoke "Fifty years ago when Wendell Phillips and his few friends assembled in a small room in Boston and promulgated the idea of abolishing slavery nobody ever thought that it would come to anything. They certainly did not anticipate the success which did accrue from their efforts. With temperance it was just the same. A friend of mine not long ago showed me an old news-paper with an article which stated that a conpregation about to build a church paid the contractor who was to erect the edifice $100, 100 shels of wheat and 100 gallons of whisky. What would we think of any church congregs tion that did such a thing to-day? But that is not all. I remember the time well when the whisky decenter was just as much an article of the minister's table as bread and butter to-"There are even a good many ministers today who are loth to speak to their congregations in a strong manner about the curse of intemperance and the pernicious liquor traffic, and, if they do, they handle the subject in such a kid-gloved, millinery kind of manner, that a kid-gloved, millinery kind of manner, that nobody takes any notice of it, anyhow. Such kid-gloved millinery ministers are yet plenty. They are all the time talking in a soft, vague manner; they speak of the devil as the respectable gentleman referred to in the Bible. They forget, or else overlook, the fact that a fined like rum, a demon like intemperance, a vice like drunkenness has to be grappled with and fought against like any other crime. They believe ir moral suasiom.

moral sunsion is all right if it is applied at the right moment. Supposing a man came to you in the dead of night, though, intending to set your house on fire, would you go out to him with your Bible in your hand and show him from Scripture that he is transgressing God's commandments? I guess not. You would hunt a policeman and have the man arrested and put in jail, and then you might give him a little moral suasion, and I think with better effect.

THE ANALOGY CARRIED OUT. "It is just the same with liquor. Let us get the law to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor entirely, put it out of the reach of The Salisbury Road Makes a Good Shownan altogether, and then, after temperance and total abstinence have thrown their mantle of benefit and morality around him, you can talk to him about the good you have conferred upon him. And that is what we must do and upon him. And that is what we must do and will do. We are on the side of God, and we are fighting in His behalf and for His cause. There is no such word as 'fail' in a case like that. We cannot be defeated, even if the prohibition amendment were not to be victorious on the 18th of June, that would not defeat it. The age of moral progress does not brook any defeat, and, if we do not succeed this time, prohibition will nevarcheless reign long before the millennium."

After Dr. Hiil's address the Rev. Mr. Emer son asked the meeting what action should be taken in regard to the proposed impeachment of Judge White by Hon. George Shiras III, and as the seentiment appeared to be unanimous in sustaining His Honor's action, and the report of its committee of three resolutions will be found in another column, in connection with other similar matter.

PERSONAL LIBERTY A MYTH.

A Constitutional Amendment meeting their are President, J. V. Patton, Pittsburg: Treasurer, W. H. Ijams, Baltimore.

A Constitutional Amendment meeting their are: President, J. V. Patton, Pittsburg: Directors, Francis Burns, Baltimore; J. H. Caven, Charles Donnelly, J. B. Jackson, W. T. Manning, John McClure, J. M. Schoonmaker, C. S. Wight, Pittsburg: Secretary and Treasurer, J. B. Washington. was under the auspices of the W. C. T. U., and was presided over by Mrs. Matchett. Colonel J. W. Echols was the first speaker. After outmain questions at issue, he took up the personal liberty phase of the question. He held that there is no such thing as personal liberty, claiming that it is a myth. He said:

claiming that it is a myth. He said:

"We are environed on every hand by laws. We find ourselves unconsciously surrounded by laws; there are the laws of nature as well as the laws of man, and if we break them by puting our hands in the fire, or eating improper food, we find, very quickly, how we have violated the law of hygiene, by the punishment that, swift and sure, follows in its train."

He said that the people who want personal liberty, simply want their own way, yet with it want all the benefits arising from society, but wish to give up none of the individual benefits arising from the whole. He held that if defeated on the 18th of next June it will be by the apathy of friends of prohibition and professed Christians who allow themselves to remain on the fence, and not by the liquor sellers.

The Rev. H. H. George, D. D., President of Geneva College, followed. He likened the liquor matter to a great benst. The question at issue, he claimed, was to fence it in or drive it out of the country. There was no neutral ground; it was either high license or prohibition, and the man who was not for prohibition, was to the higher way for the proper prohibition, and the man who was not for prohibition, was to the higher way for the proper prohibition, and the man who was not for prohibition.

tion, and the man who was not for pro was for high license; or, in other words, fenc the beast in, leaving it to break out at som other time to go on its career of destruction.

BOOZE AND BAD EGGS.

Such is the Compurison Made at a Northside Mass Meeting. A Constitutional amendment meeting was held last night in the Union Park chapel, corner North and Grant avenues, Allegheny, The speakers were the Rev. L N. Hays, D.D. and Harvey Henderson, Esq. Dr. Hays dealt with the liquor question in a practical manner. He referred to the different questions that have been brought up in conjunction with the issue, and presented a fair statement of facts fische, and presented a fair statement of facts for perusal.

Mr. Henderson followed and took up the subject of high license. He claimed that a man had to take the position of being for prohibition or for high license and the saloon. High license, he said, was like a bad egg. "It you tapped the big end it was bad, or if you tapped the little end it was bad, and if you punctured the middle you found it was bad. The egg was bad anyhow, and no matter where you broke it you found it bad."

He Just Appealed for Votes.

A large and enthusiastic meeting in favor of the Constitutional amendment was held at Salisbury Hall. Southside, last night, which was addressed by Mr. Will A. McConnell, who made an eloquent appeal for votes,
